Miijim Ondaadad Megwaayaaking
“Food comes from a certain place”

Sample Native Foods of Our Ancestors

Pre-Colonization Dinner
Thursday October 22nd, 2015  Location: Zeba Hall
Cooking Stations: 4-6 pm  Dinner Served: 6 pm

Presentation by Dr. Martin Reinhart - 7 to 8 pm
Spirit Food: Outcomes of the Decolonizing Diet Project

On March 25, 2012, twenty-five people began a year-long adventure into the world of Indigenous eating. These individuals were selected by the Northern Michigan University Center for Native American Studies as research subjects for the Decolonizing Diet Project (DDP), an exploratory study of the relationships between humans and Indigenous foods of the Great Lakes Region.

Dr. Martin Reinhardt is an Anishinaabe Ojibway citizen of the Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians from Michigan.

Join us to learn more about cooking indigenous foods, dinner, and a presentation will follow.

Sponsored By - KBIC, KBOCC, NMU Center for Native American Studies, Lake Superior Stewardship Initiative.
For More Information Call – Natural Resources Department (906) 524-5757 Deanna Hadden – Evelyn Ravindran – Erin Johnston